

Gc
929.2
v8684v

✓

ALLEN COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY

3 1833 01394 4126

REYNOLDS HISTORICAL
GENEALOGY COLLECTION

Gc
929.2
V8684v

2254651

Digitized by the Internet Archive in 2010 with funding from
Allen County Public Library Genealogy Center

<http://www.archive.org/details/vogthistory1750100vogt>

MRS. KENNETH C. ROERING
963 SOUTH LEE STREET
GARRETT, INDIANA 42438

VOGT HISTORY

1750-1911

By Jacob Weimer Vogt

DAYTON, OHIO, U. S. A.

January 1, 1911

Allen County Public Library
Ft. Wayne, Indiana

1750-VOGT HISTORY-1911

It was the desire of my father, Christian Vogt, who often expressed the wish to Jacob W. Vogt, his eldest son, that a summary might be compiled of the family history of our ancestry in the United States, and a copy sent to each family now living; that is, to those who are grandsons and granddaughters of Jonas Vogt, Sr., the first representative to arrive in America.

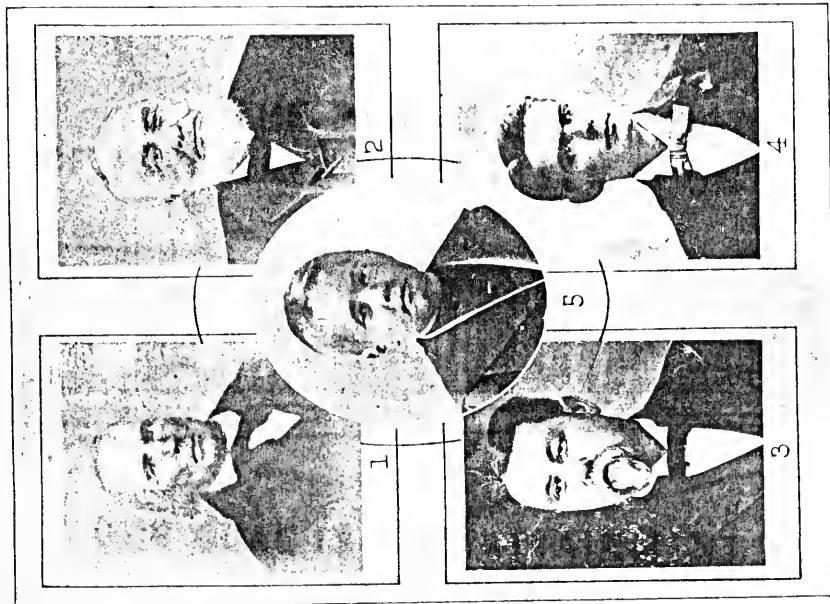

Falling into line with this purpose, I shall set forth a synopsis of such facts as are definitely known; others that are doubtful will be so indicated in this brief narrative of family history of our early ancestors in the United States of America.

Knowing that the grandsons and granddaughters of the above Jonas Vogt are all dead at this date, January 1, 1911, while their representatives are very many, I shall send only one copy of this history to each of those who are included in the once large family of eighteen children—who were my father's uncles and aunts—or sons and daughters of Michael Vogt, the only son of Jonas Vogt, the first to land on American soil.

Crude as this outline may seem, it required no little effort to gather up fragments from tradition, while some of the parts I gathered from records in old Bibles, hymn and prayer books, and written documents, dates from tombstones, etc. In an early day we did not have facilities for obtaining records, names and dates as we now have; hence I had to make dates by comparison, and as many could not be definitely arrived at, I must rely on guesswork or nothing.

I am indebted to my father, Christian Vogt, and the sainted Rev. John Vogt for much of the information contained in this record, while other relatives have contributed an item here and there which was possibly overlooked and which helps to give a more complete record.

From the earliest records of our name, we find that of Jonas Vogt, Sr., and his wife, who were both born in the Canton

FIVE GENERATIONS OF THE VOGT FAMILY

1. Jacob Vogt, Sr.
2. Christian Vogt
3. Jacob Weimer Vogt
4. Charles W. Vogt
5. David Vogt Prugh

of Basil in Switzerland, about 1720, and emigrated to North America from Germany in 1750, landing at Philadelphia, Pa., on August 12, 1750, from the Ship Royal Union, Clement Nicholson, Commander, from Rotterdam.

Upon this date he qualified to become a citizen of the country. We find he soon moved to Northumberland County, Pa., and settled four miles east of New Berlin, now Union County, Pa., on a farm. Here he and his wife died at a ripe old age and are both buried near the old homestead—Country Church—of the German Reformed denomination, now known as the Reformed Church of the United States of America, of which both were devoted members.

Our American ancestors are usually called Pennsylvania Germans because they speak that dialect. While these first families were a Swiss family, very many of their descendants of the fifth generation retain and speak the above dialect, and are proud because they are able to do so.

Calling attention to the name of Vogt in this country, I wish to say that the true spelling should be direct from the German—Vogt. It was so used until 1810, when a number of the uncles coming westward to Ohio, and mingling with the English elements of the State, departed from the original form of spelling, trying to make an English form of a German name. Hence the following ways of spelling the name have appeared in print: Vogt, Voigt, Voigt, Voke and Vote, Vogt, Foght, Focht, Fought, Fote and Foke. This has made it difficult and unsatisfactory in tracing the family. A fortune of over a million dollars was lost because of this variation in the spelling of the name. Our early ancestors regretted this very much. Such a financial loss meant a great deal more than that now, because of the great needs in the new country.

The family legend has it that Jonas Vogt had a younger brother follow him to this country some years later. He volunteered his services for the regular army and became known as the "wandering brother." Very little is known of this Daniel Vogt. In a letter from him to his only and elder brother he said, "He who would not obey father and mother must obey the calf lash," as much as to acknowledge his disobedience; or, in other words, he probably ran away from his home at Basel and came to America. This "wandering brother," having served his time in the Revolutionary War, returned to Lebanon County, Pa.; and from what can be gained from inquiry, it is generally believed that many who spell their name Focht, and who live in that section of the state, are descendants from this "wandering." In looks, religion, Swiss dialect and general traits, they bear the earmarks of having come from one parent stem, or common stock. Hence, by combining the chain of evidence and adding this last link to the long broken chain, we have a complete history of the first of our race in America.

The family of Jonas Vogt, Sr., consisted of one son and two daughters. The oldest daughter, Barbara, was born in 1741, and was married to John George Overmyer in 1760 as his second wife, and came to Ohio in 1804, and settled near the village of Redington, Perry County, Ohio. She died and is buried near that place. The second daughter, and much younger, whose name is Ann Elizabeth, born in 1748, was married to a Mr. John Frey. Strange as it may seem, we know nothing of this family, except that Jacob Vogt, my grandfather—son of Michael—told me in October, 1859, that Mr. Frey moved near Lima, Ohio, but all efforts to find their whereabouts have been in vain. Hence the branch of Ann Elizabeth (Vogt) Frey is a blank page of past as well as present history.

Michael Vogt, his only son and youngest of the family, was born in Union County, Pa., in the year 1755, and died there in that state in the year 1833 at the age of 78 years. He is buried in the neighborhood of the old homestead, three miles east of New Berlin, Pa., having spent all his days in this immediate neighborhood, an industrious, ambitious, hard-working man, of a determined desire to succeed in his humble profession or vocation of life. His wife, Elizabeth Shively, was a strong, hardy woman of equal push and ambition, as was proven by the large family which they raised and supported together with their labors. He was a farmer like his father before him. He was married to Elizabeth Shively who outlived him by some years; afterward she, as mother, was brought to Ohio by her oldest son, John Vogt, with whom she lived and died. She is buried near Geneva, Fairfield County, Ohio, a beloved mother of eighteen children. The names of the nine sons and nine daughters and their intermarriages are herewith given in their order, except twin sons and two infants who died without being named. Jacob Vogt and Henry Vogt each had a twin brother. Esther, a young daughter and the oldest child, was shot through the breast by the hostile Indians in 1784 while out in the barnyard milking the cows. She died immediately. She was aged seven years. The mother and one other daughter escaped the attack of the savages, the father firing at them from the house, and driving them away, in the twilight of the early evening, just as the sun was setting in the western horizon of the Autumn day.

The thirteen children, sons and daughters, who grew up to manhood and womanhood, were all strong, robust specimens of the Swiss race. They were married in the old homestead. Some emigrated to Ohio, near Somerset, Perry County, as early as 1804. Three families moved to Logan, Hocking County, Ohio. Later two of the married daughters moved to Avilla, Indiana; here the Walters and Huxlers also resided. Two married sons moved to Fremont, Sandusky County, Ohio, and Samuel Vogt to Barberton, formerly New Portage, Summit County, Ohio. One daughter, Hannah, married Philip Walter, remained, lived and died near Middleburg, Snyder County, Pa. This is the only family that did not move westward with the other brothers and sisters.

Nearly all of these brothers and sisters were blessed with large families (from 8 to 15 children). The home family record has a quaint old saying that "the children counted most at the table," meaning thereby that the expense of feeding so many strong, hardy, vigorous, growing children was a proposition of no mean import, but that it required their best united endeavors to meet the growing needs of this large family. Herewith was not forgotten the spiritual needs of these never-dying souls, for the home family religion was that of the German Reformed Church, now known as the Reformed Church of the United States. Devoted as these sturdy men and women of the forest were in those early days, they much loved their mother church and the Pennsylvania dialect to which their offspring yet cling, and love to speak of their church and ancestral language.

I am told in all of these families there were no professional men,—“all farmers,” no preachers, lawyers, doctors, salesmen, or even landlords. The grandchildren have departed from these early customs. Solomon Vogt, Amos Vogt and John Vogt were the first school-teachers, as early as 1843. In later years, and of the younger descendants, there are many in all professions and walks of life, such as ministers of the gospel, evangelists, doctors, professors of education and music, salesmen, merchants, lawyers, etc., representing these different professions in the highest type and success. Sober, industrious, with plenty of vim in each one to make life a success, and the religion of the families, is first and uppermost with each one. An infidel is unknown among our descendants. All acknowledge our Heavenly Father “as all in all and over all.”

It may be of interest to many to know the location of the thirteen families, descending directly from Michael Vogt, Sr., the father of the 18 children, which come into this record in the following way: The sons first, John Vogt was born July 24, 1780; died at the age of 86 years, having lived near Geneva, Fairfield County, Ohio, and in later years moved to Redington, Perry County, Ohio, where he died. His body was taken to Geneva, Ohio, and there laid to rest beside his own sainted mother, who had been a stay and solace to him and his family in the early hardships and sore trials of life in the now Middle West, but then the lonely Wilderness of Ohio—a “New State.” This John Vogt is the grandfather of Louisa (Eby) Smith, Oakley, Cal., called “Lute, the poetess.” He was also the father of the noted minister and poet, John Vogt, Jr., of Delaware, Ohio, now deceased.

Jacob Vogt, born March 10, 1788, died January 8, 1879, at the great age of ninety years. He was born in New Berlin, Union County, Pa. He and his wife moved to Glenford, Perry County, Ohio in 1816. He was married to Eva Dersham. To this union were born 11 children, sons and daughters, brought up as great workers on the farm; for that was the father's successful occupation. He and his family lived on the same farm for 65 years, near Glenford, Perry County, Ohio, and the parents are buried in the cemetery adjacent to St. Paul's Reformed Church. This same farm is owned by his youngest son, Isaac, who is also a successful farmer; and, by the way, one of his sons now lives on the same spot in whose name it has been registered from the first entries of the new State of Ohio. This grandfather, Jacob Vogt, is the father ancestor of Parley E. Zartman, the evangelist and helper of Dr. Chapman, the noted evangelist of the world, and also Pressley E. Zartman, his twin brother, an evangelistic singer and preacher of Dayton, Ohio, of the Christian Church (sons of Malinda Vogt Zartman), and also the world-wide known Von Ogden Vogt, evangelist.

Samuel Vogt, of Ada, Ohio, a farmer, is his oldest son living at this date.

John Henry Vogt was married to a Miss Hendricks for the first wife and a Mrs. Friesner for the second wife. Six children, sons and daughters, were born to the first union. The sons were noted for their skillful, inventive ingenuity. The home of this family is near Crossenville, Perry County, Ohio. He was a very successful farmer, but in his early days loved the gun and hunting. He lived a cheerful and happy life and died at about 85 years of age. He is buried near the above village.

Michael Vogt, Jr., married a Miss Kline. Had a large family of sons and daughters, all well-to-do, as they inherited this leaning from the industrious and frugal parents.

Levi Vogt, their youngest son, lives in Goshen, Ind. Michael Vogt lived on a farm 8 miles west of Fremont, Ohio. His grandson Eli lives on the same farm now. These parents died at ages of 78 and 86 and are buried in a nearby churchyard. Their oldest daughter, Mrs. Mary Gann, lives at Centerville, Utah, at the bright age of 91 years.

George Vogt married Mary Jolly, and to them were born two sons and two daughters. Lived on a farm near Hessville, Sandusky County, Ohio. This son was a good-natured, kind-hearted son, and of a very cheerful disposition, industrious and of good habits. His sons were fine mechanics and builders of houses. The daughters married good farmers and are said to be good housekeepers. He and his wife lived in this community and died and are buried near the above village.

Jonas Vogt, Jr., married a Miss Mary Ann Moyer. These industrious parents lived near the town of Logan, Ohio, on a farm, and made a success of their profession. Reared a large family of sons and daughters, some of whom are living in Kansas, also farmers. It is said of these children that they were large, strong and untiring workers, several of the children reaching the weight of 260 pounds.

Samuel Vogt, the youngest son, married a Miss Huyler. Six children were born to them, but all died young men and women, none reaching the age of 45 years. He and his wife lived to a ripe old age, good, industrious people, living all their days on a fine farm near Barborton, Ohio. It is said of him that he held a spite at the Indians for having killed his oldest sister, and always said he would get even if the opportunity ever presented itself favorable to him to do so. It is said he realized his desire before he died—the opportune time came—and from private information we have the truth of the above event, which I do not record.

Barbara Vogt was born December 25, 1789, and married Solomon Kline who was a noble companion for her—a great worker on the farm, which it was his delight to cultivate and talk of his fine crops, and she was master of the house duties—a fine cook and good manager, and knew how to make ends meet. To them were born a large family of sons and daughters, who grew up to years of maturity, married into other good families and thereby honored their parents by being able to produce like results. They lived about 5 to 10 miles from Logan, Ohio. Both died at a ripe old age, honored and respected by the community in which they lived.

Rebecca Vogt was born December 3, 1795, and married Peter Mathias, who also was a farmer, but never made any large pretensions to succeed, but was rather inclined to take the world more easily, while she had the snap and vim to push and manage where he fell short. They made together a very happy life, and to them were born 8 children, sons and daughters, who grew up to manhood and womanhood. All married well and succeeded in making good livings by hard labor. Mr. Mathias outlived his wife. He reached into the nineties. Their home was ten miles north of Logan, Hocking County, Ohio, and both are buried near a village called Enterprise.

Elizabeth Vogt was born January 28, 1791, and married John Huyler, an industrious farmer. In 1820 they moved from Pennsylvania to Wolf Lake, Noble County, Indiana, where they resided a number of years. Then afterwards they moved onto a farm not far from Akron, Ohio. Here both died and are buried in a country graveyard, at ages of 78 to 84 years, having raised a family of six children, 2 boys and 4 girls, all dead now except Mrs. John Wunderlich, of Barborton, Ohio. These good parents lived a noble, happy life, honored not only by their own children, but by all who knew them. Mr. and Mrs. Wunderlich contributed facts for this history.

Hannah Vogt was born in the year 1798. She married a good young farmer of Union County, Pa., lived near Middleburg, Snyder County, on a farm where both died and are buried in a nearby cemetery. Had only two sons, and as far as can be ascertained they are both dead. We know less of this family than any of the others, because they remained in the East and never came West. Her husband's name was Philip Walter, who married the second time without any issue. It is said by one of his nieces that he lived a very happy and contented life with each of his chosen women.

Katherine Vogt was born March 27, 1801. Married Simon Walter, of Union County, Pa. Lived there on a farm until 1822, when they moved to Avilla, Noble County, Ind., on a farm, where they spent a happy and prosperous life together, raising a large family of 12 sons and daughters, of all of whom it may be said that "industry was their motto and success followed." Michael Walter of Avilla, Ind., is the oldest son living, has been a merchant, and is 86 years old. Simon Walter and a widowed sister live in Vinings, Kansas. The aged parents died at great age and are buried near the village.

Susan Vogt, the youngest daughter, was born February 10, 1806, in Union County, Pa. Married Andrew George and in 1820 moved to Ohio, 5 miles northwest of Findlay, Ohio, on a farm. After years he died and is buried there. She, with her two sons and three daughters, moved to Schuyler County, Mo. Near Queen City, where they lived on a farm, happy together. The oldest daughter married a Mr. Fountain, with whom this good old mother in Israel lived until life's end. She was a noble, good woman, a very good manager, very strong and decided in her religious convictions, and not afraid to tell it to others. She died at the age of 90 years, having been a strong, vigorous woman. She has one son, Henry George, of Queen City, Mo., and two daughters living.

In complexion, Jonas Vogt and wife were a dark brunette couple. As that line of looks or complexion is a marked feature all through the families who first came to Ohio and Indiana, a light-haired Vogt would have been a curiosity. So that our early ancestors were often dubbed as the "Black Vogts"; yet with all that they were very even and smooth featured, with a rich, dark, robust look in the physiognomy, and when we follow and trace this line of face features down a little later, this same description holds good, for Michael Vogt, Sr., was dark and his wife Elizabeth Shively was also quite dark, so that this special feature was transmitted to future posterity. Black hair and large, black, piercing eyes are the keys to our relatives—no matter how far back you wish to trace the race. No wonder then that health, strength and activity were all combined in each individual.

These marked features are very prominent even among the present descendants and will follow them as long as the name exists.

As nations and peoples have made rapid strides in advancement in every feature of science, culture and education, so have these families advanced in all lines of industry, education and progress during these five generations, so that what we are to-day is simply an advanced step from one generation to another by our people, and the future is open to us as well as others to step right in and move along with the rapid tide of progress. We can share in the great things to be developed, just as we have shared in the things of the past, which will come as the future unfolds itself to humanity. May we then so live and act in the now that we will have done our part as best will fulfill our Heavenly Father's great purpose with us, for we can say with the poet,

"He or she who has done all that one could,
Has done well, acts nobly—
Angels could do no more."

As a recapitulation, I wish, to speak very briefly of these early ancestors. Having been endowed by heritage and birth with more than ordinary muscular power, especially with height, weight and ambition above the ordinary families,—so that it was often remarked by strangers "that these men and women were wonders," some of them tipped the scales from 240 to 260 pounds.

I remember an incident and remark of John Vogt, Sr., the oldest son of Michael Vogt, Sr., and uncle of my father, like this: Being in his home, he said: "I am always the fattest when hickorynuts and chestnuts are plentiful. I fatten easily, like a pig." He measured 6 feet 4 inches and weighed 350 pounds.

These large domestic ancestors were very even-tempered and loved civil jokes and delighted in their pioneer stories about bears, wolves, deer and the smaller animals of the native forest, with plenty of turkeys, pheasants, quails and squirrels thrown in the story for good measure, and to make it interesting to us young listeners. The advantages of education in those days were limited, so that these first white settlers did not enjoy the privileges that young America does to-day. Yet with all these privations, most of them could read and write both German and English, and had a fair knowledge of the common education of the times. This, added to their good common sense, equalled energeticness.

Christian Vogt was a member of the Reformed Church seventy-one years. His first marriage was with Miss Elizabeth Weimer, and to this union were born fifteen children, seven sons and eight daughters, thirteen growing up to manhood and womanhood. After living two years near Glenford, Ohio, he moved to Crossenville, Perry County, Ohio. On October 6, 1853, he moved onto a farm five miles southeast of Upper Sandusky, Ohio, where he spent the remainder of his days, leaving an honored name and fair inheritance for his children. His second wife was Mrs. Margaret (Zartman) Bugh, of whom it is truly said, "She is mother indeed of us all." The children are scattered and live in different states, all married and doing well for themselves and their families.

We claim a little government loyalty, as Jacob Vogt, my grandfather, was a soldier in the war of 1812, having served his full time with his company and regiment at Baltimore, Md. It is said that in all the regiment there was but one man who could measure strength with him. He was a powerful man for his build, and weighed 190 pounds. In later years some of our relatives were soldiers in the Rebellion, and not a few served during the Spanish and Cuban war.

It has been claimed by some of our earlier ancestors that our parent stem in Switzerland was known by the name of Christopher Vogt. I have no written authority for this, so I give it as received. I found it difficult enough to get a true account of the first arrival in this country of Jonas Vogt and wife, and his two daughters and Michael, his only son, born in America in 1755.

CONCLUSION

I submit the foregoing sketch without many dates of marriages and deaths, yet embracing the main facts of our early ancestors in this country up to the present time, of their occupation, religion, social life, custom and habits.

This record is brought up to January 1, 1911. Christian Vogt, my father, was the oldest son and child of Jacob Vogt. He was born February 20, 1814, in New Berlin, Pa. Died near Upper Sandusky, Ohio, December 12, 1900, aged 86 years, 9 months and 22 days. I am the oldest son of my father. At this writing my age is 71 years. I was born November 15, 1839, near Glenford, Ohio. April 4, 1867, married Magdalene Zartman, of Glenford, Perry County, Ohio. My children are Mrs. D. I. Prugh and Ira H. Vogt, of Dayton, Ohio; Charles W. Vogt, of Chicago, Ill., and Eron Z. Vogt, of New Mexico. Charles W. Vogt's children are Katherine, born December 28, 1903; and Elizabeth, born April 10, 1905. Ira H. Vogt has one daughter, Mary Louise, born December 4, 1908. Mrs. D. I. Prugh's children are: Dorothy, born July 30, 1899; David, born October 21, 1903; Charles, born June 6, 1906; Harold, born March 15, 1908.

My brothers and sisters are scattered over different states of this Union, and while I have only three sons and one daughter, some of my brothers and sisters have much larger families.

I wish to call attention to the fact that the Rev. Parley E. Zartman, the Evangelist (sister's twin son), has kindly aided me in the last year in bringing out this short family record of our ancestry, in printing and arranging matters as they appear. I am therefore greatly indebted to him for his kindness, liberality and helpfulness. I herewith submit this short history in love, kindness and good will to all who appreciate the same.

JACOB WELMER VOGT.

Dayton, Ohio, 705 Oxford Avenue, January 1, 1911.

1750—VOGT FAMILY GENEALOGY—1911

Name	Born	Died	Occupation—Residence—Family
Jonas Vagt and wife	1720 in Basil, Switzerland; landed at Philadelphia, Pa., August 15, 1750; settled on a farm near New Berlin, Pa., where they spent the rest of their days.
Children.
1 Barbary Vagt	1741, married John George Overmyer in 1760.
2 Ann Elizabeth Vagt	1748, married John Frey.
3 Michael Vagt	1755, married Elizabeth Shively in 1775.

1755—MICHAEL VOGT—1833

1 Esther Vagt	1777—	1784—	Killed by Indians.
2 John Vagt	1780—7-24	1866—12-15	Farmer; New Redington, Ohio; 3 sons, 6 daughters.
Mary Ann Neible	No date	No date
3 Michael Vagt, Jr.	1782—4-8	1861—6-10	Farmer; Hessville, Ohio; 6 sons, 6 daughters.
Elizabeth Kline	1783—9-1	1867—3-30
4 Jonas Vagt, Jr.	1784—4-16	1853—12-17	Farmer; Logan, Ohio; 4 sons, 3 daughters.
Mary Ann Moyer	1789—5-3	1874—12-25
5 George Vagt	1786—	No date	Farmer; Hessville, Ohio; 2 sons, 3 daughters.
Mary Jolly	No date	No date
6 Jacob Vagt	1788—5-10	1879—1-8	Farmer; Glenford, Ohio; 6 sons, 5 daughters.
Eva Dersham	1792—3-23	1887—9-24
7 Barbara Vagt	1789—12-25	1862—2-11	Farmer; Logan, Ohio; 4 sons, 3 daughters.
Solomon Kline	1788—8-17	1870—8-17
8 John Henry Vagt	1792—3-16	1869—5-3	Farmer; Crossenville, Ohio; 4 sons, 2 daughters.
Eliza Hendricks (1st)	1795—11-9	1857—9-22
Mary Ann Friesner (2d)	1806—1-3	1894—9-11

9 Elizabeth Vagt	1794—1-28	1871—7-28	Farmer; Barberton, Ohio; 4 sons, 6 daughters.
John Huvler	1793—11-13	1856—11-13
10 Rebecca Vagt	1795—3-12	1859—3-12	Farmer; Logan, Ohio; 4 sons, 3 daughters.
Peter Mathias	1785—1-1	1879—1-25
11 Hannah Vagt	1798—	No date	Farmer; Middleburg, Pa.; 2 sons.
Phillip Walter	No date	No date
12 Catherine Vagt	1801—3-27	1865—	Farmer; Avilla, Ind.; 4 sons, 8 daughters.
Simon Walter	1791—12-14	No date
13 Samuel Vagt	1804—5-4	1880—9-4	Farmer; Barberton, Ohio; 3 sons, 4 daughters.
Christena Huvler	1798—2-12	1878—12-12
14 Susan Vagt	1806—	1892—2-10	Farmer; Queen City, Mo.; 2 sons, 4 daughters.
Andrew George	1799—5-20	1849—5-20

Two infant girls died without being named. Jacob, the 6th child, and John Henry, the 8th child, each had a twin brother to die in infancy, making the entire family 9 sons and 9 daughters.

JACOB VOGT, SR., FAMILY.

Jacob Vagt, Sr.	1788—5-10	1879—1-8	Moved from New Berlin, Pa., to Somerset, Perry Co., Ohio. Landed June 5, 1816; moved to Glenford farm, March, 1817.
Eva Dersham	1792—3-23	1887—9-24
Children.
Christian Vagt	1814—2-20	1900—12-12	A prosperous farmer; Upper Sandusky, Ohio; 7 sons, 8 daughters.
Elizabeth Welmer (1st)	1814—5-3	1880—4-1
Margaret Bugh (2d)	1827—7-27	1900—2-7
Elizabeth Vagt	1816—1-3	1900—4-27	Farmer; Clyde, Ohio; 2 sons, 4 daughters.
Allen Shoaltz	1814—	No date
3 Eva Vagt	1818—10-16	1861—2-22	Farmer; Upper Sandusky, Ohio; 5 sons, 2 daughters.
Samuel Troup	1814—8-2	No dates

Parents of Catherine Vagt: Elizabeth Kline, who married John L. Keeran, who married P. Franklin Mayfield who were parents of Edward H. and Helen E. Mayfield.

Name	Born	Died	Occupation—Residence—Family
4 Phoebe Vogt Jacob Smith	1821—4-22 1820—11-8	1909—9-10 Living	Farmer; Upper Sandusky, Ohio; 1 son, 6 daughters.
5 Sarah Vogt (1st) Emily Lentz (2d) Levi Zartman	1823—1-25 1831—10-29 1822—10-5	1858—7-11 1887—1-17 1867—3-8	An industrious Farmer; Glenford, Ohio; 4 sons, 3 daughters.
6 Jacob Vogt, Jr. Mary Humbarger	1825—3-16 1828—4-1	1858—8-5 Living	Farmer; Glenford, Ohio; 2 sons, 2 daughters.
7 Hannah Vogt Jacob Bodell	1826—2-26 1818—7-6	1884—3-19 1901—3-17	Farmer; Glenford, Ohio; 3 sons, 5 daughters.
8 Samuel Vogt Magdaline Joeris	1829—3-4 1837—6-17	Living 1907—5-26	A successful Farmer; Ada, Ohio; 1 son, 8 daughters.
9 John Vogt Mary Ann Wirick	1831—9-29 1834—11-6	1874—12-12 1910—9-6	Farmer; Upper Sandusky, Ohio; 2 sons, 4 daughters.
10 Isaac Vogt Magdaline Smith	1836—5-7 1835—12-4	Living 1892—1-2	Excellent Farmer; Glenford, Ohio; 2 sons, 1 daughter.
1 Levi Vogt	Died in infancy.

1814—CHRISTIAN VOGT—1900.

Christian Vogt Elizabeth Weiner (1st) Margaret Bugh (2d)	1814—2-20 1814—5-3 1827—7-27	1900—12-12 1880—4-1 1900—2-7	A prosperous Farmer; Upper Sandusky, Ohio; 7 sons, 8 daughters.
Children.
1 Caroline Vogt	1838—9-15	1838—12-16	Died in infancy.
2 Jacob Weiner Vogt Magdalene Zartman	1839—11-15 1844—6-11	Living Living	Merchant and Traveling Salesman, Dayton, Ohio; 3 sons, 1 daughter.
3 Matilda Vogt Solomon Kotterman	1841—3-25 1839—2-22	Living Living	A successful Farmer; Upper Sandusky, Ohio; 3 sons, 3 daughters.
4 Malinda Vogt Solomon K. Zartman	1842—8-8 1839—3-3	Living Living	Elevator Operator; Dayton, Ohio; 2 sons, 2 daughters.
5 Eli Vogt Mary Ellen Depler	1843—11-1 1847—11-27	Living Living	Successful Farmer; Shobouler, Ill.; 4 sons.
6 Catherine Vogt William C. King	1844—11-30 1838—5-15	1907—11-27 1893—12-1	Merchant; Topeka, Kansas; 3 sons, 3 daughters.
7 John Henry Vogt Julia Dulton	1846—3-17 1855—7-23	Living 1890—8-28	Hardware Merchant, Lecturer, State Representative; 2 sons, 1 daughter.
8 Elizabeth Vogt Julius Von Blon	1847—6-5 1848—12-21	Living 1876—2-6	Farmer; Upper Sandusky, Ohio; No children.
9 Lydia Vogt Orville Case	1849—6-13 1847—7-2	1887—2-27 1910—4-22	Farmer; Lexington, Nebraska; 4 sons.
10 Leah Vogt Silas P. Mauger	1850—10-2 1847—7-4	Living Living	Minister; Pastor Ref. Church, Hanover, Pa.; 1 son, 1 daughter.
11 Ezra Vogt Mary E. Stair	1852—3-17 1855—8-25	1896—4-9 Living	Successful Shoe Merchant; Chicago, Ill.; 1 son, 2 daughters.
12 Samuel B. Vogt	1854—6-24	1885—11-4	Not married; (deceased); a fine sing- er; very fond of music.
13 Isaac Vogt Jessie Rummel	1856—9-27 No dates	Living Living	Traveling Salesman; Findlay, Ohio; No children.
14 Alvena Bertha Vogt Abraham McClain	1858—11-16 1860—5-20	Living Living	Prosperous Farmer; Upper Sandusky, Ohio; 4 sons, 2 daughters.
Samuel B. Vogt had a twin brother who died in infancy, 1854—6-24, public school one day. Active, energetic and industrious family.
7 sons and 8 daughters. 13 attended

1839—JACOB WEIMER VOGT—1911.

	Born	Died	Occupation—Residence—Family
Jacob Weimer Vogt	1839—11-15	Living	Merchant and Traveling Salesman, Dayton, Ohio; 1 daughter, 3 sons.
Magdalene Zartman	1844—6-11	Living
Children.
1 Charles Willard Vogt	1868—8-27	Living	Floor Manager and Fur Buyer, Mar- shall Field's Store, Chicago, Ill.; 2 daughters.
Katherine Martin Bergman	No date	Living
2 Ira Homer Vogt	1870—9-16	Living	Manager Printing Dept. National Cash Register Co., Dayton, Ohio; 1 daughter.
Harriet Leihenderfer	1874—11-18	Living
3 Zillah Grace Vogt	1873—8-7	Living	Attorney and Banker; Dayton, Ohio; 1 daughter, 3 sons.
David Irving Prugh	1871—4-1	Living
4 Evon Zartman Vogt	1880—3-20	Living	Sheep Ranchman; New Mexico; Un- married.

This ends the direct line of ancestry from Jonas Vogt, the first, 1720, down to the present date, January 1, 1911, of our own immediate families, in their relative age order.

History from 1700 to 1820 does not record one name from a foreign land of a Vogt beginning with the letter "F," but all with the letter "V," hence Swiss or German extraction.

Christian Publishing Association, Dayton, Ohio, 1911

ALL RIGHTS RESERVED
P.O. BOX 157
GARRETT, IND. 46733

HECKMAN
BINDERY INC.

MAY 85

N. MANCHESTER,
INDIANA 46962

